Wellness RISK Management

There are three groups of people we are interested in.

1. Companies
 2. Workers
 3. All others

1. Message to Companies

Companies are encouraged to notify workers, with regard to Wellness, on a regular monthly basis. WRM helps with that.

2. Message to Workers

A worker decides if they wish to learn Chronic Disease Prevention Strategies.
WRM shows the worker how this will work.

3. Message to people not in a company

We have not forgotten about this group. Our programming code has been tasked with bringing the non working population on board in the near future.

WRM Timeline

First, WRM will complete the BETA Testing phase we are in now. BETA Testing is an opportunity for 20 people to sign up for the WRM program for free.

Second, WRM will begin the PILOT program with a few chosen companies that have some level of concern for the Wellness of their workforce. The PILOT program is designed to establish proof of principle that there are enough people interested in helping themselves to make the WRM program worthwhile for that company.

Third we update policy and launch Wellness RISK Management in 2024.

WRM and Companies

Wellness RISK Management is for companies that want to help their workers build better Wellness. This needs to be coupled with workers who have a keen interest in helping themselves with Chronic Disease Prevention Strategies.

Wellness RISK Management measures individual workers and provides workshops to help the worker improve their scores.

Wellness RISK Management recommends a three-way agreement between a company, an individual worker and Wellness RISK Management.

One would not be faulted for believing that everybody wants to improve their Wellness. That is just not the case in reality and not the case in the clinical setting which we have many decades of experience with. This means there should be a special program for those people who are interested in helping themselves with Wellness strategies. Wellness RISK Management is that program. WRM is a new model with a thorough, comprehensive testing program that builds numbers around multidimensional Wellness strategies, then identifies and sets priorities effectively.

An agreement will be asked of companies that come on board with WRM for them to notify each worker with a reminder on the first day of every month. The reminder should be to 'Make Wellness a Priority'. It is up to the company to structure how they will notify/remind workers. We are suggesting something more structured than just tacking a poster onto a bulletin board. The reminder could be something more along the lines of a short email once a month reminding workers that help is available in the Wellness Self-Help field.
